PANEL

"The Role of Government in Censorship" will be the panel discussion sponsored by the Issues and Controversy Committee.

The discussion will begin at 8:00 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center Memorial Lounge.

The Benjamin Cluff Jr. Plant Science Laboratory will be added to this spring by a two-story, 5400 square foot wing. The new facilities will include space for agronomy, botany, and horticulture lab and lecture areas. The building is located near the botany pond south of the campus.

College Roles Discussed At U Of U

"Fractured Fairy Tales" or "Once upon a Time" will be the theme of four annual Skits-o-Frantic at 1 p.m. Friday in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Six organizations will compete for the three winning trophies. They were chosen from a group of original contestants.

Organizations and their skits are as follows: Kappa, "Fractured Fairy Tales"; Junior Class, "Name me"; Maeser Hall, "Cloddy's Action"; Senior Class, "Alice in and"; Wells Hall, "A State of Mind"; Princess and the Pea.

Providing intermission entertainment and emceeing will be the Layton, a group that has been performing at BYU for over a year and a half.

Skits-o-Frantic is sponsored by ASBYU Production Guild.

Tuesday at the U of U Union Building to discuss the question, "What should be the moral responsibility of the university in determining the morality of its students?"

The underlying theme of the BYU team was that the university's responsibility is to provide a type of environment in harmony with its existing code of morality, enabling students to develop their potentials within the necessary bounds.

BYU was represented by Paul Gilbert, vice president of Academics; Jason Summers, Managing Editor of the Daily Universe; and Dr. Bushman, Associate Director of the Honors Program.

The U contended that it was a code of morality rather than being "prescribed" by the institution, had to be discovered by each student.

Panel participants from the U were Paul Taylor, Chronicle Editor; Bert Wills, assistant to the student body president; and Dr. Cave, Director of the Honors Program.

"The university is responsible for only one kind of morality—the furthering of intelligence, integrity and good will through hard work. The greatest kind of immorality is in allowing irrelevancies—such as basket weaving—to be carried on at a university level," Dr. Harold Bauman said.

He voiced special concern for limitations placed on any institution by restrictions of the administration in such areas as recruitment of faculty based on religion. Dr. Bushman supported BYU's position by clarifying the difference between the forced imposition of a moral code by the institution and the acceptance of that same code by the individual.

"You must remember that BYU is a church-owned university and we cannot disregard its moral code which is already accepted by its members—including most of the students who attend BYU," he said.

Answering a question posed by a U of U "brethren," Paul Taylor, Paul Gilbert explained that "BYU preferred not to have speakers on campus who seriously challenged the moral code of the Church."

"However, our policy is not to absolutely prohibit such speakers," he said.

Jason Summers added that BYU maintains the best collection of anti-Mormon literature in the world for any student interested in studying opposing views.

Marrieds To Have Weekend Of Fun

Dick Balog's Orchestra, vocalist Steve Bos, prizes, the presentation of Married Students Week tiny King and Queen, and refreshments, will highlight the Married Students Prom to be held Friday from 9 to 12 p.m. in Wilkinson Center Ballrooms 1 and 2.

Plant Science Lab To Be Built At Y

Local architect Lewis Eric Sandstrom Jr., has been commissioned to prepare drawings for an addition to the Benjamin Cluff Jr. Plant Science Laboratory, according to President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

The building will house improved lab and lecture facilities for agronomy, botany and horticulture. "The addition will provide badly needed space for these departments," commented Dr. Rudger H. Walker, dean of the College of Agricultural and Biological Sciences.

The two-story structure will extend the present L-shaped building 75 feet to the west and add 5,400 square feet of floor space. The new part will match the golden buff brick of the existing building.

"We're hoping to have the addition completed for use in fall, but we may not make it," added Dean Walker.

Laboratory facilities for plant genetics, plant physiology, cell biology, plant physiology and electron microscopy will be provided. Also included will be a darkroom for photography, temperature control rooms and classrooms.

The present building was completed in 1935 and named in honor of Benjamin Cluff Jr., in 1957, second president of BYU. It includes offices, classrooms, laboratories and three large greenhouses.

John Glenn To Speak

John Glenn, first American astronaut to orbit the earth, will speak to interested students and faculty members today at noon in the Varsity Theater.

The speech will be made via telephone. Students on both the BYU campus and the USU campus will hear the astronaut lecture and will be able to participate in a question and answer period following the lecture.

Students may bring their questions to the lecture. Admission will be free. This lecture is part of a series of telecasts.

There were no screams of excitement and the 41 contestants couldn't care less what the judges had to say. Nevertheless, the Honorable Married Students Royalty, King Sean Yates and Queen Shelby Poulsom—ages three and four—will reign over Married Students Week, Feb. 20-25.

A Man To Solve Economic Woes

The advent of George Romney onto the national political scene has been a process of evolution rather than the result of any one major decision. As a bright young executive for American Motors Romney first gained national recognition when he became president of a company which was operating at a consistent loss and which appeared to have no bright future.

With a series of sweeping innovations and careful revisions of the company's financial structure he soon brought the organization to a position of financial stability. In an amazingly short time the Corporation was showing a healthy profit and its sales had grown to more than six percent of the American market.

Most men would have been content to ride the crest of such a tidal wave of achievement but not George Romney. A successful campaign for governor of the State of Michigan took him to the enviable position of restoring fiscal responsibility to a state which was operating at a deficit of more than $85 million annually.

With careful deliberation Romney enacted stringent tax controls and broke the hold of large corporations that were strangling the state. In only three years he succeeded in turning the deficit into an almost equal annual profit. It was on this note that the people of Michigan returned him to office last November with an impressive vote of confidence.

With his past record of economic achievement in view it is very significant that Romney is figuring prominently in the 1968 Presidential race. For several years the U.S. has been caught in the midst of a serious inflationary spiral which many economists predict will reach a disastrous climax within the next 12-18 months.

In the wake of the strong inflationary trend comes the economic threat of peace in Viet Nam. If the much hoped for peace materializes the resulting increase in domestic labor force and reduced markets for many industries will pose monumental problems for the administration of this country.

The present administration has proven ineffectual in coping with economic problems of this nation in recent months and shows no real promise of being up to the additional problems of the future.

It should be very comforting to the voters of the nation to have a man with the experience and ability of George Romney ready and willing to accept the challenge of the coming administrative period.

U Rated 18th...

UCLA Dominates Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Tennessee Monday became the fourth member of the Southeastern Conference to reach top 10 this season by climbing to the No. 8 position in the week-ended Press International major-colleges basketball ratings.

The Volunteers, who grabbed the lead in the SEC last weekend with victory over Vanderbilt, reached their highest pinnacle in history by their record to 17-4.

Joining Tennessee in the top 10 week after an absence of two weeks was Boston College, which replaced Utah State in the 10 position.

CLA, the top-ranked team since the beginning of the season, touched its record to 21-0 last week and continued to maintain its lead in the ratings. The Bruins, however, failed by two votes of gaining all the first place nominations from the 35-man UPI Board. There was no change among the top three teams as Louisville and North Carolina remained in second and third place, respectively.

With Boston College moving up to the top 10, Syracuse took over 11th place. The Orangemen moved up one place from last week and went ahead of Utah State, which dropped to 12th despite a victory. BYU climbed to 18th spot.

Significant Americans ...Dr. Blaine Porter
To Review Book

Dr. Blaine Porter of the College of Family Living will be the speaker at a book review today at 4:10 p.m. in 347 Wilkinson Center.

Dr. Porter will review "The Significant Americans," by John Cupper and Peggy Harnoff. The work is a research study of marital behavior of the upper professional classes.

In the book, 437 individuals were intensively interviewed in order to discover more information about the real elements of marriage and family relationships which frequently lie behind the facade and pretenses in the lives of many individuals, according to Dr. Porter.

Chairman of the Child Development Family Relations Dept. for 12 years, Dr. Porter obtained his Bachelors and Masters degrees at BYU and his Ph. D. at Cornell University.

The review, sponsored by the Academics Office, is open to all students and faculty.

FINANCE MEETING

Leo Beus of the Assembly made mention of a special meeting Thursday night for all ASBYU budget recipients.

The meeting is to explain the Finance Office's position with the funds they have and the problems in allocating the ASBYU funds equitably.

It will also give organizations an opportunity to set up time for an interview with the Budget Committee to present their justifications for their budgets.

Jim Sandberg, vice president of finance, will be present. They will meet in room 545 and 547 of the Wilkinson Center at 8:30 p.m.

The exception among the panel of five Democrats and four Republicans is Rep. Claude Pepper of Florida, who said Powell's offenses were so serious that he should be seated and then expelled.

The committee headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., worked without a break Tuesday as it sought final agreement after a two-week investigation of the Harlem Democrat's fitness to serve in Congress.

It must report by Thursday to the House, which denied Powell his seat Jan. 10 pending the inquiry.

"It's the only punishment that can be made to stick," one Republican said. "And it's a logical punishment because it will hit him where it hurts the most—in the pocketbook."

He was the furor caused by government with the National Association and other groups has "greatened its effectiveness." Whether Helms has stated support would be withdrawn, said, "yes." But he would rather not comment. Russell's disclosure, two educators condemned the group's financial association with the CIA.

AMC Lowers Prices To Hold Market

DETROIT (UPI)—American Motors Corp. announced price reductions ranging up to $324 in its Rambler American models in an aggressive attempt to regain its position as king of the compact car field.

Roy D. Chaplin, Jr., Board Chairman, said the reductions would be made possible by elimination of annual changes in model designs and anticipated higher sales volume from Americans who are finding smaller cars more suited to their needs.

Chaplin said the basic 220 series two-door sedan would be priced at $1,839. Advertised delivered prices on all nine body types of the Rambler American will be reduced by $154 to $234, making the price differential between Ramblers and major compact imports as little as $24 and the advantage over U.S. competitors as much as $48.

Since its days of leadership in the compact car field, AMC has suffered a sharp decline in sales and profits. The firm lost $12.6 million in its 1966 fiscal year and another $8.4 million in its first 1967 fiscal quarter.

Chaplin said AMC decided to take advantage of growing consumer need for a more inexpensive American compact.

Indoor Track Gains Popularity

By Spence Milne
Universe Sportwriter

The recent rise in popularity of indoor track and field meets may be attributed to the increase in the number of quality indoor facilities across the nation.

Before 1960, big indoor meets were the exclusive domain of the bigger eastern cities.

Now there are elegant arenas in San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Albuquerque, Fort Worth, and Louisville.

INTIMATE RELATIONSHIP

Another reason for indoor track's astronomic rise in popularity is the intimacy that exists between competitor and spectator, because of the immediate proximity of the stands to the track—something not found at outdoor meets.

Also contributing in no small way to the spread of indoor track have been civic and service groups, who have become increasingly aware of the great capital gains derived from gate receipts, and have established new meets in all parts of the land.

Most indoor tracks are of the 11-lap-per-mile (100 yards per-lap) variety. Builders are two notable exceptions in the 16-lap-per-mile (178-yard) setup in Albuquerque, and Louisville's 8-lap (228-yard) facility.

WOOD TRACKS

These tracks consist of interlocking slates of a soft wood, usually spruce, fir, or pine, put together in the same fashion as the wooden floors in a house.

Many of the big midwestern universities, instead of using portable board tracks, have permanent dirt tracks installed in their fieldhouses.

Because of the smaller track with its sharply-banked turns (some as much as 36 inches), the distance of some of the running events have been revised to better suit the circumstances.

It is impossible to get a long enough straightaway indoors for even a 110-yard dash, as the straights on an 11-lap (160-yard) track are, at most, only 60 yards. Therefore, the sprint and hurdle races of 60 yards are run.

SHARP CURVES

Because of the tightness of the turns, no races on the track of less than 40 yards are ever run, Mar. 1.

and even the 440 is a rare event. In the flat races, a distance of either 500 or 600 yards is usually substituted for the quarter-mile, and a 1000-yard run for the half-mile (880).

Perhaps the most popular events of any program are the distance races. Every meet features a mile race, and either a two or three-mile, or more.

As the contestants must run more laps per mile than the normal four, the official world's records for the distance races are slower than those outdoors.

3:56.4 INDOORS

The mile record, for example, is 3:56.4 indoors, and 3:51.3 outdoors.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation—track and field's governing body—does not officially recognize indoor marks, because of idealness of conditions—that is, no wind or threat of inclement weather, high-friction surface, and the wide difference in track dimensions.

The lack of space eliminates the discus and javelin. Most field events, however, are not so hampered.

A most interesting adaptation is made in the shot put event. A thick polyethylene shell—the same material as "Tupperware"—is filled to the correct weight (16 lbs.) with buckshot.

SOFT LANDING

This change is required because the shot put area, as well as the high jump area, consists of the same interlocking slats as the running surface of the board track.

Murals Teams Active

The Intramurals Office has announced that divisional basketball playoffs are now underway. Teams still in competition should check bulletin boards each afternoon as new schedules are put up.

M-M volleyball will begin today, Feb. 22. Schedules will be posted. Intramural volleyball competition will begin Monday, Feb. 27.

Entries for co-recreational chess and checkers will close Friday, Feb. 24. Play will start Wednesday, Mar. 1.

Another difference in the indoor environment is evident in the long jump and pole vault runways, which are often inter-changed.

These are made of interlocking "boxes," with the runway surface on top of the "boxes" elevated about a foot off the floor to allow for sand landing pits for the long and triple jump events, and for the "box," into which the pole is shoved at the beginning of the vault itself.

It's trade-in time for tired old myths.

Like the one about business. Especially big business. That it is beyond the rugged individualist's wildest daydream to enter this holy of holies because he'll lose something that's very sacred — like his independence.

Sure, it can happen. If a guy or gal wants to hide, or just get by, or not accept responsibility, or challenges.

We're not omniscient enough or stupid enough to speak for all business, but at a company like Western Electric, bright ideas are not only welcome, they are encouraged. And no door is shut. Create a little stir, go ahead, upset an old applecart (we replace shibboleths) at a terrific pace — we have to as manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System — in order to provide your Bell telephone company with equipment it needs to serve you.)

There's an excitement in business. True, we're in it to make a profit, but working to find new and better ways to make things that help people communicate is very rewarding and satisfying. Did you ever hear these wry words of Oliver Wendell Holmes? "Never trust a generality — not even this one."

That's how we feel about the generality that claims you'll just become a little cog in a company like Western Electric. You might, of course, but if you consider yourself an individual now, odds are 10 to 1 that you'll keep your individuality. And cherish it. And watch it grow. Even at big Western Electric.

You know, that's the only way we'd want you to feel. If you feel like coming in with us.
